

 Disclaimer *****

This web page exists solely as a tool for communicating project information to the specific audience of lab occupants within the Physics Research Building. The content reflects the understanding of the project as held by the Physics Department facility team and may or may not be factually correct. The site does not serve to define any system design or other engineering parameters that are related to the project. Parties in need of information beyond the context stated herein should contact the University.